Follow your Heart by Harriet

Never trust what others say
It is what you think that counts
You don't need to change the way you look everyday
Just for someone else's approval
You don't need to flaunt
About everyday
Just for someone else's approval

If you change the way that you leap
And just become another sheep
You will be in with the herd
And you will never be heard
By anyone
Other than the one who begun

You don't need others to decide what you do
You can be unique
You can be you
You will never stray
From what you love and want to be
For you can decide everyday
Who you want to be
And you will not worry what others say
Because you don't need their approval anyway
